

FAMILIAR FACES
"this comic interlude" [3GAB]

The Sunday funnies.

Perhaps you recall the golden days of childhood when you'd awaken on Sunday mornings, and you'd rush outside to pick up the multiple-pound Sunday paper and bring it inside to rifle through the sections until you got to the comics.

Or perhaps you'd find dad already downstairs, comfortably slouched in his favorite chair in his robe and slippers, already enjoying the same.

But childhood is irrevocably linked with the Sunday funny pages.

We all had our favorites, whether it was Peanuts, Garfield, Dilbert, Terry and the Pirates, Beetle Bailey, Hi and Lois, Hagar the Horrible, Cathy, Doonesbury, the Far Side, Calvin and Hobbes, Stone Soup, Dick Tracy, or any of the hundreds of others that have had their color panels appear in papers across the land over the years.

And so, it is over at Baker Street Elementary, where history comes to life...

DO YOU SUBSCRIBE TO THE THEORY HISTORY TENDS TO REPEAT ITSELF...?

SUBSCRIBE?

IT MEANS 'ACCEPT' OR
'ACKNOWLEDGE', YOU
BLOCKHEAD?

I THINK THIS CYCLE APPLIES TO EVERYTHING: LITERATURE, ART, CULTURE, POLITICS, AND RELIGION.

EVEN CARTOONS...?

WHAT IF WE DON'T LEARN LESSONS
FROM THE PAST... ?

I DON'T DO SO WELL AT TESTS... NO ONE TOLD ME THERE WOULD BE QUESTIONS.

HIS TRAIN OF THOUGHT SHOULD BE LOADING ANY MINUTE NOW.

MAYBE WE COULD JUST REPEAT THE GOOD THINGS...

WHO GETS TO DECIDE WHICH ARE GOOD AND WHICH ARE BAD THINGS?

